

Reflection Questions

- How have you personally witnessed Jesus as the Good Shepherd?
- Contrast and share your experience of being among the herd with the feeling of being isolated from it.
- What fears have you overcome because of your recovery and faith in Jesus Christ?

Fourth Sunday of Easter

Integrate Faith & Twelve Steps with CIR+

Get your recovery started or strengthen your existing faith and recovery with life-saving resources

- Daily Mass reflections delivered to you each morning
- CIR Pathway to Recovery to guide your first 90 days
- Recovery Center including The Catholic in Recovery Workbook digital companion and other video courses
- Free webinar access including past recordings
- Community forum to discuss Catholic 12-step principles
- Start your free 12-day trial today at www.catholicinrecovery.com/cirplus

Sunday Mass Readings this Week

First Reading: Acts 13:14, 43-52

Responsorial Psalm: Psalm 100:1-2, 3, 5

Second Reading: Revelation 7:9, 14b-17

Gospel: John 10:27-30

Fear is a crippling feature that is often at the core of our dark journey through active addiction. It has the tendency to freeze us and keep us in isolation. We have turned to our compulsive behavior as a remedy for fear, yet when we take a moment to get honest with ourselves, we recognize that our addictive behavior and unhealthy attachments only fueled its ravenous flame.

In order to break free from the darkness of fear, we need a Higher Power who knows our anguish and is willing to go after the stray sheep among his flock. "It is not those who are well who need a physician, but those who are sick," Jesus proclaims to those who think they have it all figured out (Luke 5:31).

We can learn much about the nature of our Higher Power, Jesus Christ, through the Parable of the Lost Sheep (Luke 15:4-6):

“What man among you having a hundred sheep and losing one of them would not leave the ninety-nine in the desert and go after the lost one until he finds it? And when he does find it, he sets it on his shoulders with great joy and, upon his arrival home, he calls together his friends and neighbors and says to them, ‘Rejoice with me because I have found my lost sheep.’”

This parable makes sense by understanding the social behaviors of sheep. Sheep are animals that rely heavily on their flock for safety, bonding, and purpose. When isolated, they undergo severe stress and demand extra attention until they are properly reintegrated into the community. Therefore, the image of the Good Shepherd placing the lost sheep on His shoulders mirrors the grace our Lord offers us as we find ourselves settling into a fellowship we can call our own.

Fear is “an evil and corroding thread” which “touches about every aspect of our lives” (Alcoholics Anonymous, p. 67). We had to be lifted by the Good Shepherd in order to overcome fear’s paralyzing properties. Once we are active in a fellowship of believers, we are told to stay in the middle of the herd.

This Sunday’s Gospel reading captures the safety and salvation we can expect to find as the sheep of Jesus’ flock:

Jesus said:

“My sheep hear my voice;

I know them, and they follow me.

I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish.

No one can take them out of my hand.

My Father, who has given them to me, is greater than all,

and no one can take them out of the Father’s hand.

The Father and I are one.”

As we rely on the Twelve Steps and the sacramental life of the Church, we replace fear with faith and begin to experience freedom. Our identity is formed by God’s unwavering love for us, which overcomes any obstacles – real or perceived – standing in the way of our serenity.